4201.0 Research on Minority Aging from the RCMAR Network

Tuesday, Nov. 3, 2015: 12:30 p.m. - 2:00 p.m.

As the older population becomes increasingly diverse, it is essential that research reflect this trend and that the scientific workforce also better reflect those communities. This symposium presents the work of scholars from the NIA-funded Resource Centers for Minority Aging Research (RCMAR) network who are at the forefront of creating new knowledge that can improve the health and quality of life of older adults in racial and minority communities. They provide empirical examples of how interventions, policies, and research need to be carefully adapted to have relevance. The discussant will place these advances into the context of NIA’s priorities for future research on minority aging.

Presenters: Steven P. Wallace, Carl V. Hill, Rosa Maria Sternberg, Wassim Tarraf, Sylvia Paz, Sarah Song, Ricardo Basurto-Davila
